

Introduction:

Physical Restraint should be limited to emergency situations and used only in the last resort.

It enables teachers and other members of staff in the school, authorized by the principal, to use such force as is reasonable in the circumstances, to prevent a pupil from:

- Committing an offense
- Causing injury to, or damage to the property of, any person (including the pupil himself)
- Engaging in any behaviors prejudicial to the maintenance of good order and discipline at the school or among its pupils, whether during a teaching session or otherwise.

When might it be appropriate to use reasonable force?

Examples of situations that may require restraint are when:

- A pupil attacks a member of staff, or another pupil
- Pupils fighting
- A pupil is causing, or at risk of causing, injury or damage by accident, by rough play, or by misuse of dangerous materials, substances or objects
- A pupil is running in a corridor or on a stairway in a way in which he/she might have or cause an accident likely to injure her/himself or others
- A pupil absconding from a class or trying to leave school (NB this will only apply if A pupil could be at risk if not kept in the classroom or at school)
- A pupil refuses to obey an order to leave an area which would cause physical danger.

Definition of restraint at Reach British School

Physical restraint is the positive application of force with the intention of protecting the child from harming themselves or others or seriously damaging property.

General Policy Aims

Staff at Reach British School recognizes that the use of reasonable force is only used as a last resort following a range of strategies available to secure pupil safety / well-being and to maintain good order and discipline. Our policy on restraint should therefore be read in conjunction with our Behavior and Safeguarding policies.

Specific aims of the restraint policy.

- To protect every person in the school community from harm
- To protect all pupils against any form of physical intervention that is unnecessary, inappropriate, excessive or harmful
- To provide adequate information and training for staff so that they are clear as to what constitutes appropriate behaviors and to deal effectively with violent or potentially violent situations

Why use restraint?

Physical restraint should avert danger by preventing or deflecting a child's action or perhaps by removing a physical object, which could be used to harm him / herself or others. It is only likely to be needed if a child appears to be unable to exercise self-control of emotions and behavior.

It is not possible to define every circumstance in which physical restraint would be necessary or appropriate and staff will have to exercise their own judgment in situations which arise within the above categories. Staff should always act within the school's policy on behavior and discipline, particularly in dealing with disruptive behavior.

Staff should be aware that when they oversee children during the school day, or during other supervised activities, they are acting in loco parentis and should, therefore, take reasonable action to ensure pupils' safety and well-being.

Failure to physically restrain a pupil who is subsequently injured or injures another, could, in certain circumstances, lead to an accusation of negligence. At the same time staff are not expected to place themselves in situations where they are likely to suffer injury because of their intervention.

Alternative Strategies:

There are some situations in which the need for physical restraint is immediate and where there are no equally effective alternatives (e.g. is a pupil about to run across a road).

However, in many circumstances there are alternatives e.g. use of assertiveness skills such as: the broken record in which an instruction is repeated until the pupil complies use of a distracter, such as a loud whistle, to interrupt the behaviors (such as a fight) long enough for other methods of verbal control to be effective withdrawal of attention (audience) e.g. if an action such as damage to property is threatened other techniques designed to defuse the situation, such as the avoidance of confrontation, or use of humor (in these cases the incident can be dealt with later when emotions are no longer running high) The employment of other sanctions is consistent with the school's policy on behaviors.

Use of Physical Restraint:

Physical restraint should be applied as an act of care and control with the intention of re- establishing verbal control as soon as possible and, at the same time, allowing the pupil to regain self-control. It should never take a form which could be seen as a punishment.

Staff are only authorized to use reasonable force in applying physical restraint. There is no absolute definition of this, as what constitutes reasonable force depends upon the situation and the pupil to whom it is being applied. However, generally, only the force necessary to stop or prevent poor behaviors should be used, in accordance with the guidelines below.

There are some forms of physical intervention, which may involve minimal physical contact, such as blocking a pupil's path or the staff member physically interposing him or herself between the pupil and another pupil or object. However, in some circumstances, direct physical contact may be necessary. In all circumstances other methods should be used if appropriate and effective physical restraint should be a last resort.

When physical restraint becomes necessary:

DO

- Tell the pupil what you are doing and why
- Use the minimum force necessary
- Involve another member of staff if possible
- Tell the pupil what he/she do for you to remove the restraint (this may need frequent repetition)
- Use simple and clear language
- Hold limbs above a major joint if possible, e.g. above the elbow
- Relax your restraint in response to the pupil's compliance

DON'T

- Act in temper (involve another staff member if you fear loss of control)
- Involve yourself in a prolonged verbal exchange with the pupil
- Attempt to reason with the pupil
- Involve other pupils in the restraint
- Touch or hold the pupil in sexual areas
- Twist or force limbs back against a joint
- Bend fingers or pull hair
- Hold the pupil in a way which will restrict blood flow or breathing
- E.g. around the neck
- Slap, punch, kick or trip up the Pupil Actions after an Incident

Physical restraint often occurs in response to highly charged emotional situations and there is a clear need for debriefing after the incident, both for the staff involved and the pupil. The Designated Safeguarding Lead should be informed of any incident as soon as possible and will take responsibility for deciding for debriefing once the situation has stabilized. An appropriate member of the teaching staff should always be involved in debriefing the pupil involved and any victims of the incident should be offered support, and their parents informed.

If the behaviors are part of an ongoing pattern it may be necessary to address the situation through the development of a behavioral IEP, which may include an anger management programmed, or other strategies agreed by the SENCO and/or Social Workers.

It is also helpful to consider the circumstances precipitating the incident to explore ways in which future incidents can be avoided.

All incidents should be recorded immediately by the member/members of staff involved in the incident. All sections of this report should be completed so that in the event of any future complaint a full record is available. The Safeguarding Lead or Social Worker (at the direction of the safeguarding lead) will contact parents as soon as possible after an incident, normally on the same day, to inform them of the actions that were taken and why, and to provide them with an opportunity to discuss it. Reports should be handed to the Safeguarding Lead and will be filed in the Safeguarding File.

Risk Assessments

If we become aware that a pupil is likely to behave in a disruptive way that may require the use of reasonable force, we will plan how to respond if the situation arises. Such planning will address:

- Management of the pupil (e.g. reactive strategies to de-escalate a conflict, holds to be used if necessary)
- Involvement of parents to ensure that they are clear about the specific action the school might need to take
- Briefing of staff to ensure they know exactly what action they should be taking (this may identify a need for training or guidance)
- Identification of additional support that can be summoned if appropriate.

Complaints:

A clear restraint policy, adhered to by all staff and shared with parents, should help to avoid complaints from parents. It is unlikely to prevent all complaints, however, a dispute about the use of force by a member of staff might lead to an investigation.

It is our intention to inform all staff, pupils, parents and governors about these procedures and the context in which they apply.
